

Rain, Rain

Author: Sanjiv Jaiswal 'Sanjay'

Illustrator: Tasneem Amiruddin

Translator: Manisha Chaudhry

Level 2

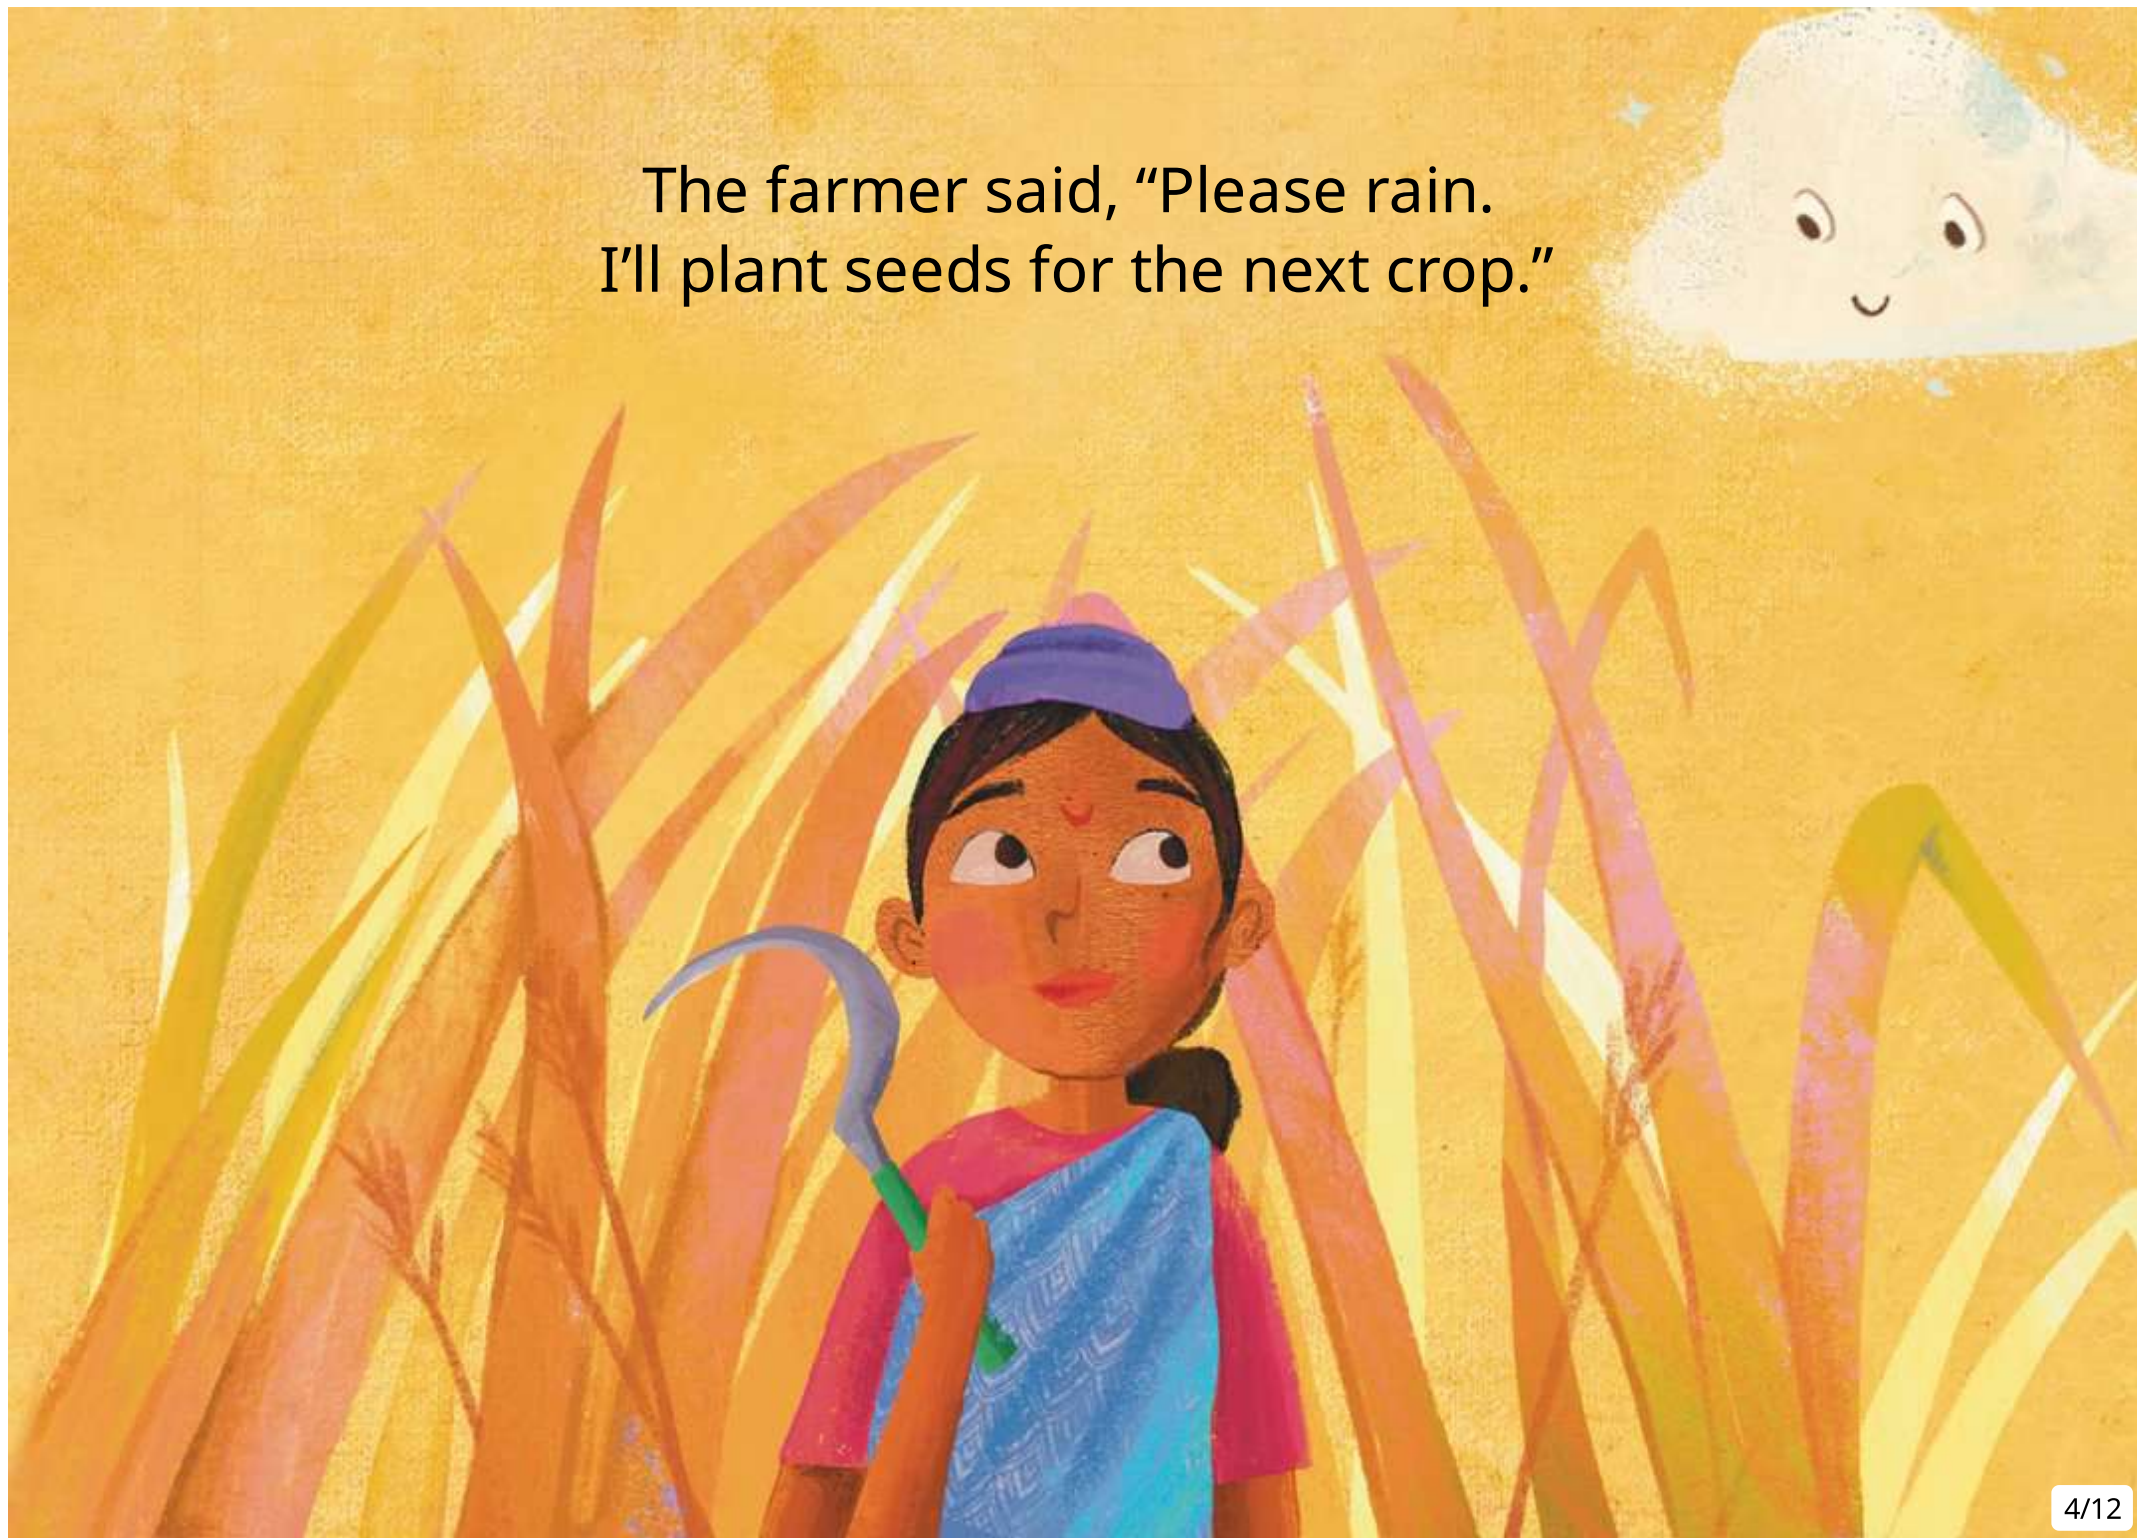

A whimsical illustration featuring a peacock with vibrant blue, green, and purple feathers standing in a field. Above it, a white, fluffy cloud with a smiling face floats in a yellow sky. To the right, a tree with a dark trunk and a large, rounded pink canopy is shown, with a small yellow bird perched on one of its branches. The foreground includes stylized green bushes and a small stream. The overall style is soft and painterly.

A cloud rolled along merrily in the sky.
The peacock said,
“Why don’t you rain?
I will dance for you.”

The fish said, "Please rain.
I need more water."

The farmer said, "Please rain.
I'll plant seeds for the next crop."

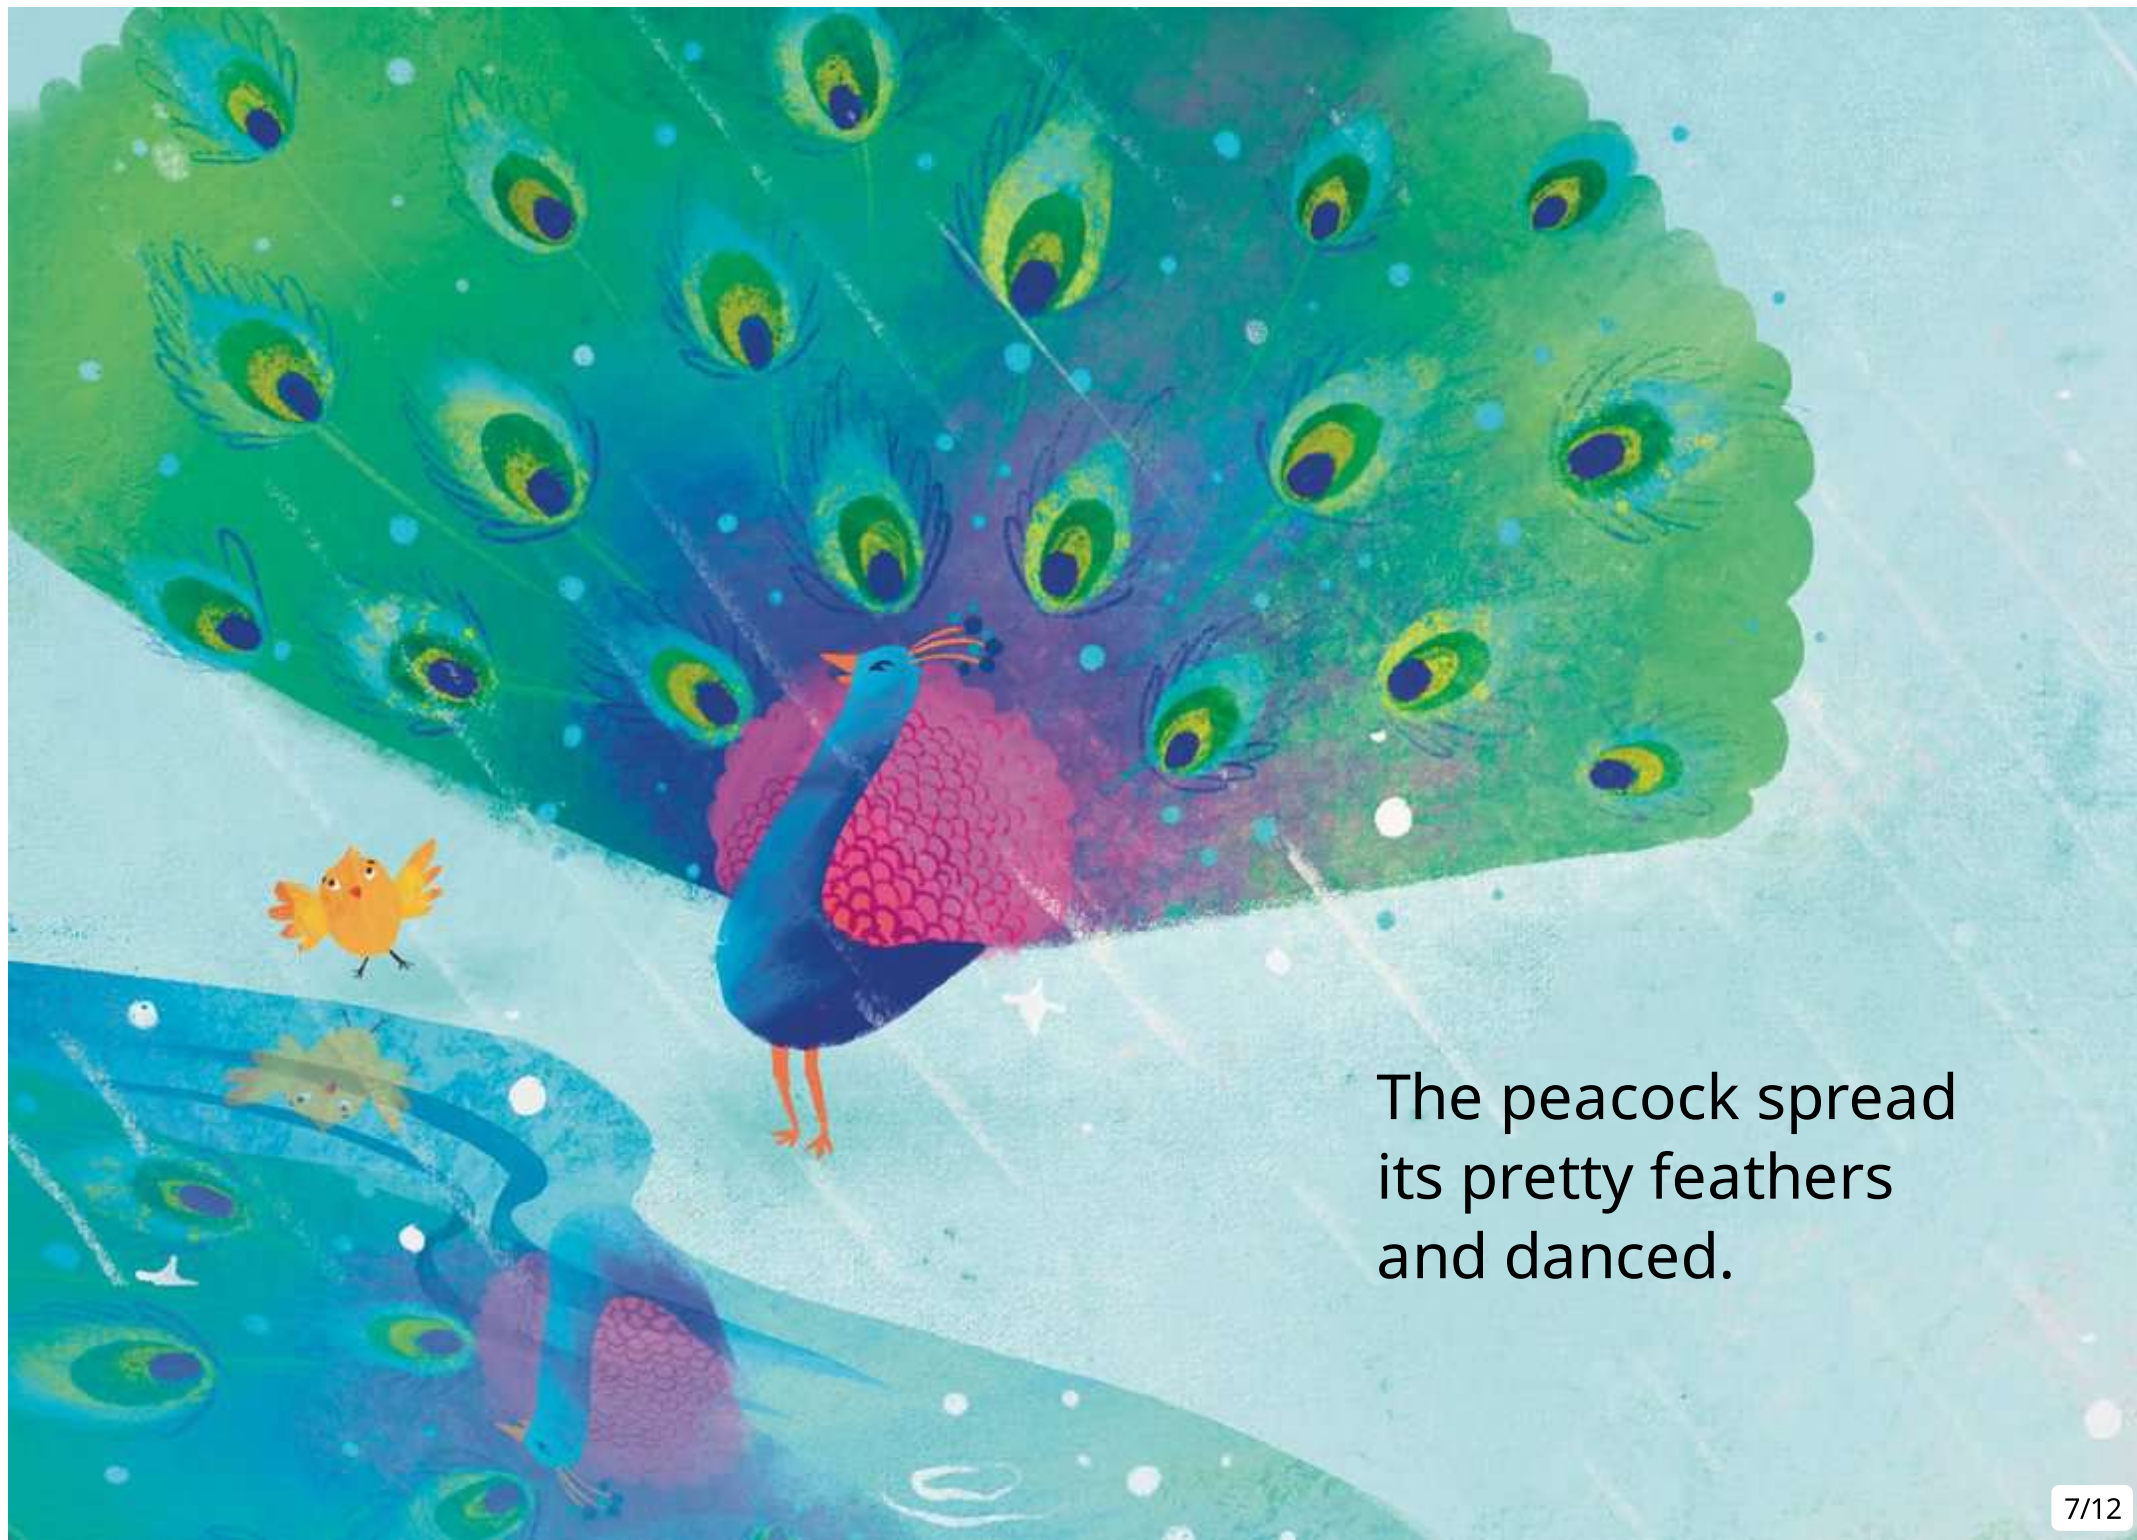

Raju said, "If you rain,
I'll sail paper boats."

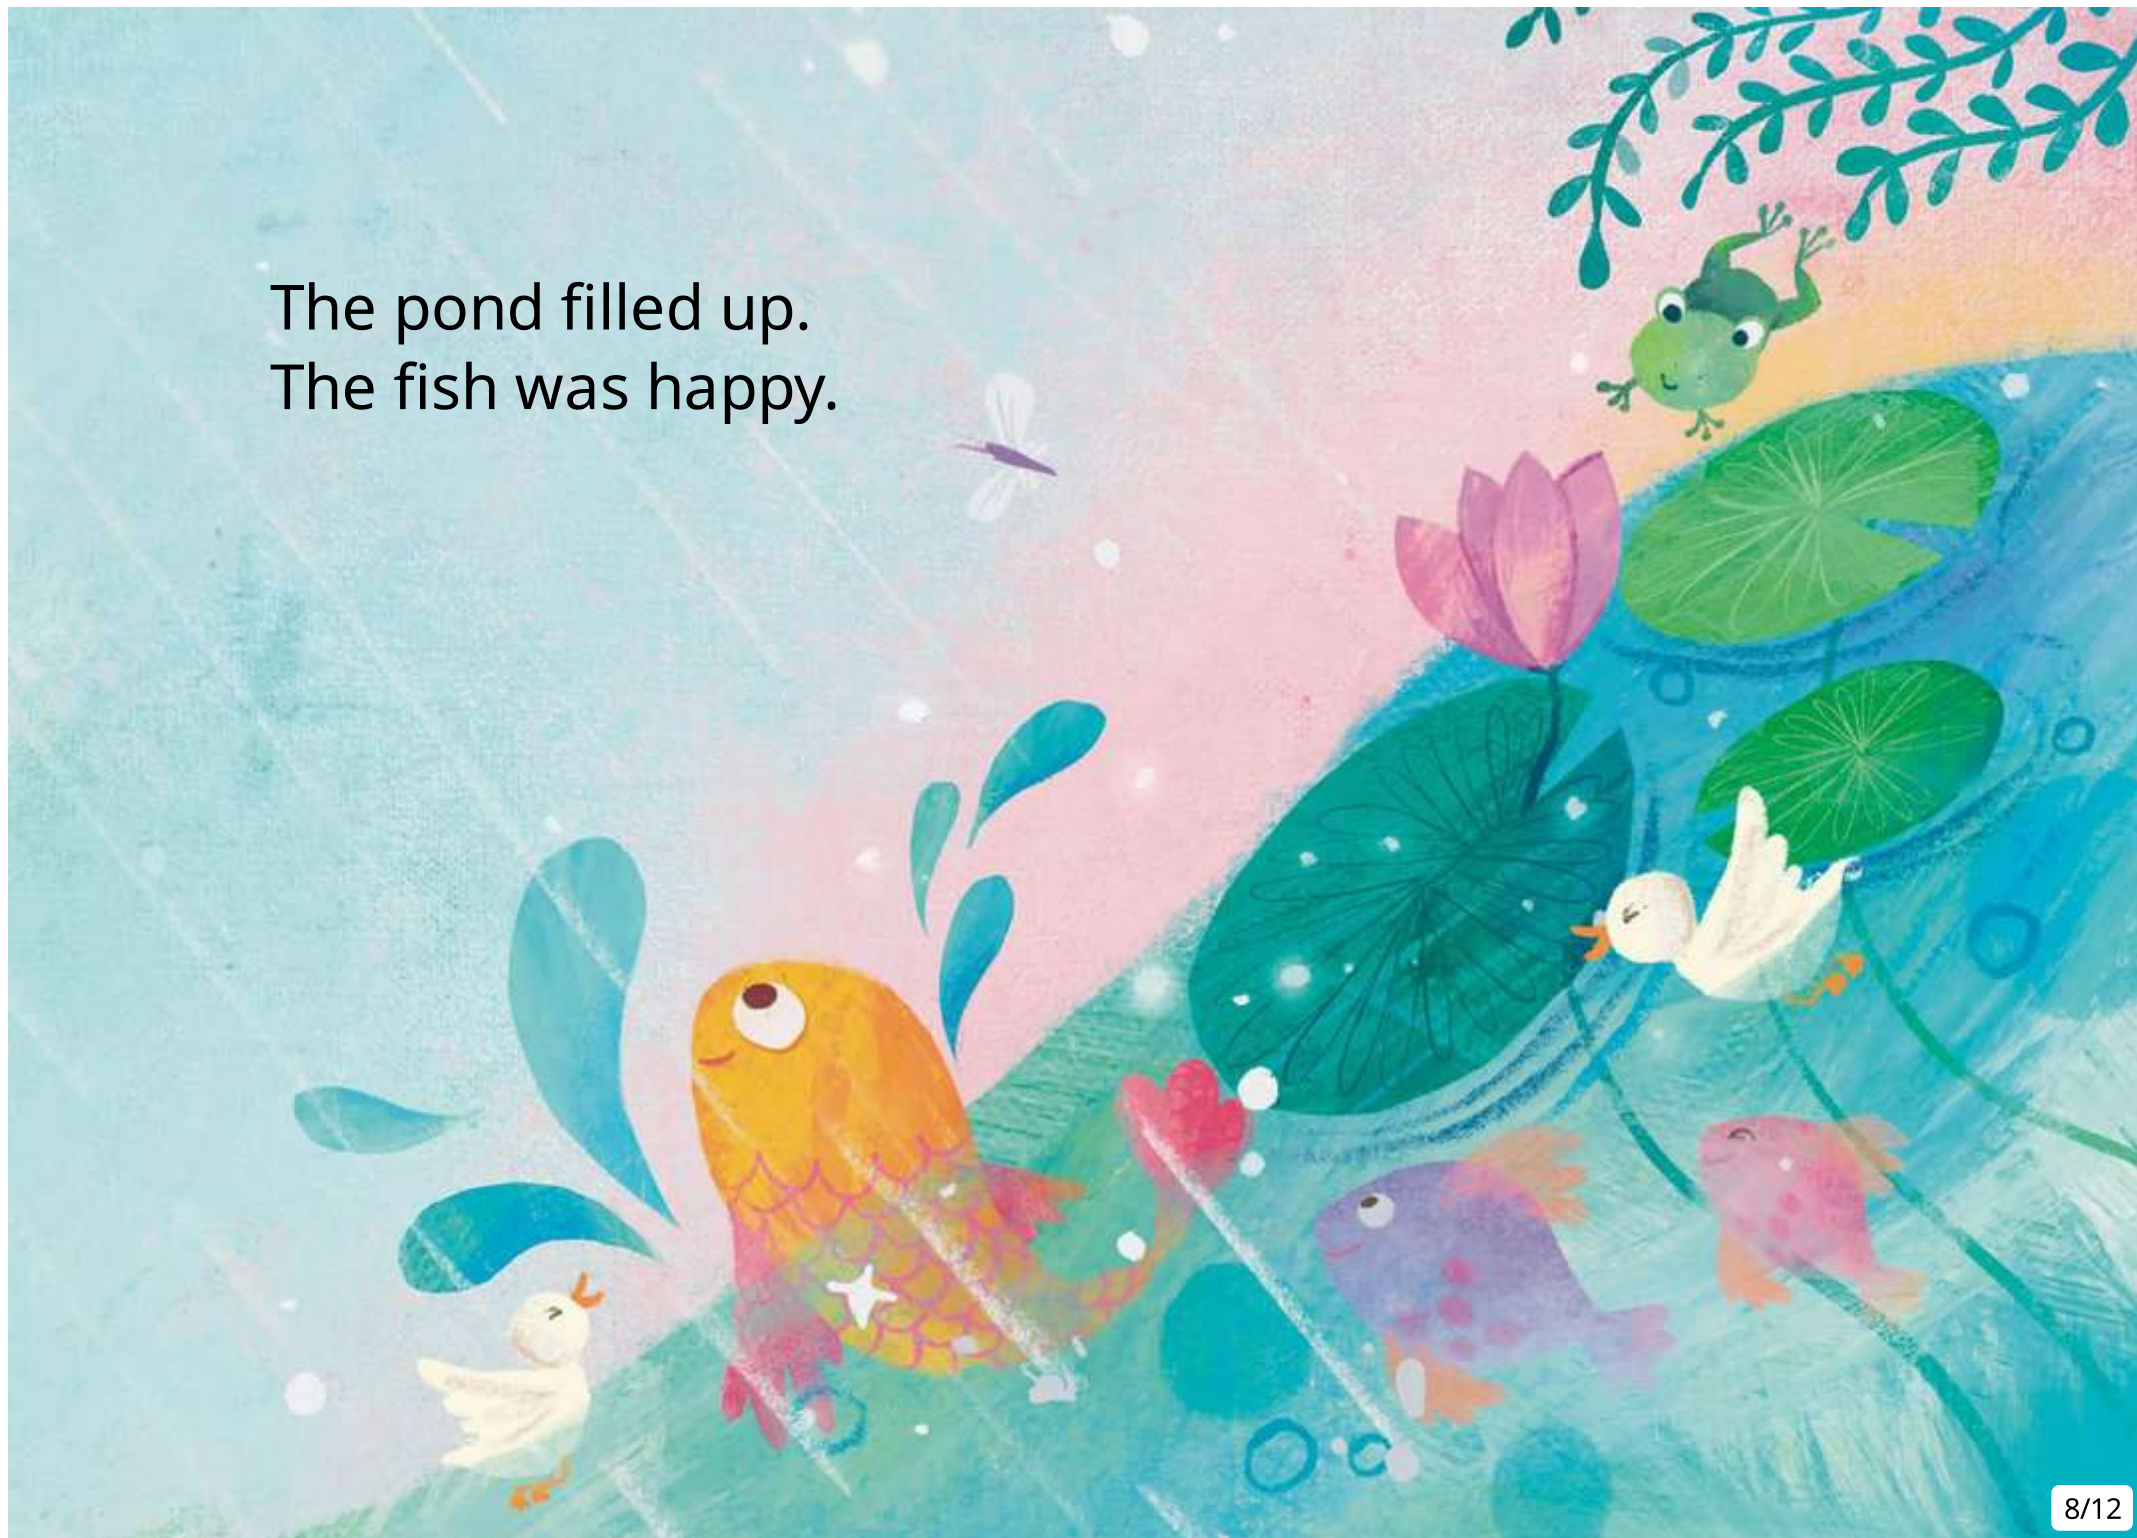

The cloud rained in a shower of shimmering drops.

The peacock spread its pretty feathers
and danced.

The pond filled up.
The fish was happy.

The farmers started planting seeds.

Splish! Splash! Splosh!
Raju and his friends
had a wonderful time
in the puddles.

The cloud filled everybody's heart with joy. It moved on. All the children waved goodbye.

